

Humanscale's LEED Certified Offices

Humanscale's dedication to the environment transcends beyond our products and their material content, to the very spaces we occupy. Outfitted with Humanscale products, our offices across the globe embody the principles of sustainable design. In fact, a number of our offices have achieved LEED Certification, which requires a clear demonstration of commitment to sustainability that goes well beyond complying with standard building codes. As we continue to implement best green practices, all of us at Humanscale look forward to carrying on this trend of sustainable design.
